MacGregor HISTORY

Since 1897, MacGregor has provided top-quality equipment to every type of golfer, from avid amateurs to history's greatest champions. MacGregor players have won tournaments all over the world including 59 majors but we're just as proud of the countless rounds we've helped everyday golfers enjoy. We pride ourselves on products blended with craftsmanship, style, and modern innovation, with all golfers in mind.

ESTABLISHED 1897

MacGregor

1897 & 1920's – THE BIRTH OF MACGREGOR GOLF

'THE VISION'

The year: 1897 the place: Dayton, Ohio, Edward Canby, co-owner of the Dayton Shoe Last Company has an idea. Canby, a true entrepreneur, envisions brining golf to the masses.

FROM SHOE LASTS TO CLUBHEADS

Soon, the wooden shoe form factory is converted to compete in the booming golf industry and beings mass-producing wooden club heads and hickory shafts. It first renamed J. MacGregor and then simply MacGregor Golf. A powerhouse is born..

THE FUTURE WAS THEN

Sensing not just the excitement of a new century but also the explosion in golfs popularity, MacGregor adds steel-forging facilities to its factory. MacGregor begins producing iron club heads and complete sets.

ESTABLISHED 1897

MacGregor

1920's and 1930's – A NEW BEGINNING

FIRST-EVER STEEL SHAFTS

MacGregor introduces the first set of finished clubs with steel shafts. Prior to the use of chrome, steel shafts are disguised with a pine-green celluloid laminate to resemble wood, appealing to even the most sceptical golfers.

GOING PRO

MacGregor makes handshake deals with three promising tour players – Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson and Jimmy Demarest – beginning the long tradition of professional greats and legends using MacGregor clubs and equipment.

CONTINUED INNOVATION

MacGregor continues to make headway in club innovation and releases the first face inserts in woods, the first mild steel forging of irons, the first vibration-dampening shaft, "Neutralizer" and the first all-weather rubber and cord grips.

THAT'S THE MACGREGOR TRADITION.
